Rome Sees No Peace Unless Hitler Bows

Fuehrer's Formula Breaking Up on British Firmness, Fascist Press Says; Attack Made on

By REYNOLDS PACKARD,

ROME, Oct. 9.—(UP)—The Fascist press admitted today that Adolf Hitler's peace proposals seem doomed to collapse unless the Fuehrer's "attitude changes radically."

Hitler's formula for peace, it was said, is breaking up on the rocks of a British determination to fight the war to a finish unless Germany makes concessions "which by logic and experience she certainly will not make." Mention U. S. Attitude.

Britain's stubborn defiance of Hitler's overtures, according to the newspaper La Tribuna, has been encouraged by the fact that "not even the government of the United States decided to take official notice of Berlin's suggestion

Greenleaf, Maine sea and shore fisheries commissioner, but coast guards-men described the flight as a routine patrol.

Greenleaf said that while cruising in a small boat 15 miles south of Portland he sighted a gray submersible moving in a southeasterly direction—a course that might cross the path of the Iroquois, which under normal conditions would pass Nantucket shoals, about 200 miles down the coast,

Heavily guarded by a convoy of United States naval vessels, the Iroquois is bound from Eire with 584 Americans fleeing the European war zone. She is due in New question would remain in status quo.

The court ruling was explained as placing operation of motion picture theaters in the same classification as department stores and other commercial enterprises and asserted its effect would be to eliminate Sunday movies throughout the state.

Important to Hospital.
Officials of the Scottish Rite nospital charity fund declined to make any statements last night pending a study of the decision to be made by their attorneys today.
A large portion of the operating costs of the hospial is paid by the funds obtained from Sunday movies and baseball. Some city officials pointed out that spict interpretation of the law in light of the court's decision would mean among other things the closing of the city's swimming pools on Sundays in the summer. Ruling Suggests Repeal.

The decision suggested that if the law was "unsatisfactory or unjust" opponents should seek remedial action "by way of application to the legislature to modify or annul it, not by application to the court whose sole duty it is to construe and say what the legislature meant by passing it."

Attorney General Ellis Arnall said enforcement of the state ban on Sunday motion pictures would fall upon city and county police authorities. He observed that some cities might be inclined to "wink at the letter of the law."

Though the Avandale theater

Though the Avondale theater asserted it was turning ver its receipts to the Scottish Rite hos-pital which in turn reimbursed it for operating expenses, the court held the defendants were doing the same work on the Sabbath they did the other siz days a week and were receiving the same wage and were receiving the same wage and therefore were not engaged in charitable work. The court held the theater employes were not em-ployes of the hospital, on Sunday, as they claimed.

Can Appeal, Under Georgia law, defendants in the Avondale case may appeal to the Georgia supreme court for a writ of certiorari granting review of the litigation by the high court.

of the litigation by the high court. If the supreme court refuses to grant the writ, the final judicial appeal would be closed.

Since the Avondale theater was closed on Sunday by court order, only two theaters in DeKalb county have been operating on Sunday and both of those are in the city of Atlanta, the DeKalb county solicitor's office announced. All theaters in the city have been operating on the Sabbath under the charity arrangement.

Frank Lebby Stanton is just one of the gleaming names which spangle the star-strewn history of The Atlanta Constitution. No other singer of the age better caught the lyric sweetness of the fields, the gardens, the children and all the small but absolute essentials of everyday life. This beloved soul for more than forty years whispered his tuneful words to an untold audience through a daily column in The Constitution. Author of homely ballads that will warm the hearts of generations to come, friend of the literary great, the "poets' poet," he typifies the continuing friendly philosophy of the newspaper to whose staff he belonged and to whose tradition he became such a rich contributor.

Frank L. Stanton sang his songs to the one-ness of human nature, blessing its virtues, winking at its foibles, cherishing it for its ultimate regard for truth and justice. That is why he was a poet of all the people—not a darling of the few. In that, he fitted, as he helped to fashion the character of The Constitution—which has won its place in the journalistic sun by continuous striving for the greatest good to the greatest number.

Today's copy of this newspaper, and tomorrow's, follow that plan of service. So much so that its growing audience of loyal readers is today vastly greater than it was when Frank L. Stanton charmed America with his immortal verse. Free and frank editorial expession on world or local affairs—interesting women's pages—features, light as froth for pure entertainment or packed with authentic, up-to-date information—its far-flung news supply—its comprehensive, well-edited coverage of every phase of life and thought have made it welcome throughout the region touched by its influence. The Atlanta Constitution—by far-seeing, progressive enterprise—is every day enriching the great tradition to which it is heir.

No wonder its pages yield such profitable returns to advertisers. No wonder The Constitution, Atlanta's oldest newspaper, is so appreciated by the people of this community that it has continued to be and is today First in home-delivered; First in total city; First in total trading area circulation.

Five minutes later she was joined by a man, dressed as Gallogly was when he left the hospital. They sat quietly until the train was called, when they boarded a Pullman. No tick-

ATLANTA, GA., OCTOBER 10, 1939.

Merely a Truce.

Regardless of what interpretation is placed upon the vague and involved "peace terms," to be found in the Hitler Reichstag speech, the inescapable fact remains that any serious acceptance of those "terms" by the Allies would be merely playing into Hitler's hands and, at best, could bring only a truce, not a real and lasting peace.

Stupid indeed must be the individual who sees any real hope for peace in the Hitler forensics. Taking his own past record as the criterion, the alleged "peace move," can be nothing else but another step in the Nazi formula of trickery, deception and diplomatic ruthlessness. Hitler is merely following the classic Napoleonic method of always being for peace just after he has got what he wanted.

In allegory, he is a cobra who wants time to digest the meal he has just engorged. Permit him this time, and he will, soon, be trying again to swallow another country, just as he has swallowed Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, etc. He wants nothing better than to be left alone to achieve his objectives one by one.

It is likewise probable that, while he is a blustering threat-maker and bully where smaller, weaker nations are concerned, he is having many moments of doubt when he contemplates the outcome of a war to the end against Britain and France. That is a different outlook, altogether.

There may be a few in Britain, in France and in America who cherish hope that peace will result from the Hitler oratorical offensive. If their opinion prevails, however, it will be tantamount to complete defeat for the Allies. And it will mean, not stable peace, but an uneasy period of truce, lasting only until such time as Hitler feels he can engorge another country, make its citizens coolies to labor as slaves for the Reich, and spread the bloodthirsty doctrine of Nazidom over another segment of Europe.

Any miscalled "peace" on Hitler terms, would be but playing the Nazi game, except and until such time as the Nazi armed forces are so completely smashed that Berlin domination of the European scene, either by force or the threat of force, is wiped from the realm of possibility.

Annie Crusoe Club

On Friday, October 13, the Annie Crusoe Club will mark the 25th anniversary of its founding. Successful businesswomen of Atlanta, by hundreds, will on that day recall with pleasure what an important factor that club was in the days when they were struggling for a foothold in the commercial world.

The Annie Crusoe Club was the outgrowth of an idea of the late John J. Egan, of the Central Presbyterian church, and Mrs. R. D. Crusoe, teacher of the Bible class for young women of that church. It was established as a home for businesswomen, where they could live in better surroundings and in much greater comfort than they could hope to secure elsewhere for anything approaching the small cost.

For the first 18 years of its existence the club maintained its boarding home on Washington street, but in 1932 moved to larger and better quarters on Juniper street, where it is still established.

It is not a charitable undertaking. From the start it has been self-sustaining and has never shown a deficit. But that it has extended a vital helping hand to many young girls, come to Atlanta as strangers to carve out business careers for themselves, is the record of its

One of the unique features of the home is that it does not dispossess the girl living there if she loses her job. She can continue to have a home, with the cost of her board considered a loan, to be repaid out of her earnings when she again finds employment.

The success of the Annie Crusoe Club during the quarter century of its existence is a monument not only to the memory of its founders. but to all the splendid girls who have lived within its walls during that period.

Allies' War Aims

Thus far, other than an announced determination to free Europe of Hitlerism and the reconstitution of Poland and Czecho-Slovakia, there has been no expression of the Allies' war aims. Perhaps the situation has not sufficiently crystallized, yet the expression cannot long be delayed.

When the terms to be imposed when Hitlerism is crushed are propounded, the world at large will know whether or not the lessons of Versailles have been learned and digested. Until they have been published, there must remain some question of the attitude of the allied governments.

The blunders of these governments, stemming from the Treaty of Versailles, helped to bring the holocaust. Hitler is the creature of the Allied mistakes as well as of the German people. Another such Hitler can only be prevented by a peace treaty of a fairness never yet seen in the history of the world. If the British and the French can measure to that responsibility, then the sympathy of the world in general, and of the United States in particular, will more certainly rest in their cause. If they cannot, then it is all the more certain the United States will implement and strengthen the determination to insulate this hemisphere against all European politics.

If Britain and France intend to re-establish Czecho-Slovakia, Poland and Austria as sovereign states, and at the same time make it possible for Germany and Germans to exist, then the world is entitled to this expression. If France and Great Britain intend to follow the pattern of the First World War and impose humiliating, impoverishing terms upon Germany, and to reconstitute the map of Europe in such a way as to perpetuate the bickering of the past 20 years, then, too, the world should be so informed that its actions can be governed accordingly.

Only Britain and France can answer these questions.

High Blood Pressure.

High blood pressure and other circulatory ailments now take a higher yearly toll in human lives than any other diseases. So when an announcement is made by a qualified member of the medical profession that a given treatment has been found exceptionally successful in combating these allments it is particularly welcome.

Dr. Max Minor Peet, of the University of Michigan, in an address before the Kansas Southwest Medical Society, pointed out that he had found success in treating high blood pressure by removing a portion of the eleventh rib on each side, thereby permitting him to get at the nerves leading to the kidneys.

The physician was quick to point out, however, he claimed no "cure-all" qualities for the operation. Although no more dangerous than removing an appendix, high blood pressure always proves fatal eventually, sometimes within days or weeks and sometimes not for many years. It affects 15 per cent of all adults and carries off four times as many people as cancer.

Out of 194 patients treated by Dr. Peet during a period of six years, 76 per cent gained complete or almost complete relief from symptoms of the disease.

High blood pressure, according to the doctor, results from a diminished circulation of the blood in the kidneys, due to a constriction of the blood vessels which lead to them. This constriction is caused by stimulating the nerves to these blood vessels. The purpose of the operation is to prevent such stimulation. This accomplished first by removing a small tion of the eleventh rib, then by cutting off the nerves connecting with the blood vessels leading to the kidneys. The nerves, it is said, serve no necessary function.

Within comparatively few years the doctors and their laboratories have developed treatments and cures for many diseases long considered incurable, or which, at best, could be only temporarily arrested. None of these, however, is likely to prove more welcome than a real cure, a genuine alleviation, to those suffering from the perils of high blood pressure.

RESULTS (From The Wilmington News.)

Some six months ago, the United States made a Ioan to Brazil. Some people wondered then whether it was a good idea. Today the gesture is showing results. A deal has just been closed with Brazil for $5,500,000 worth of American rails and ships, and another for $6,500,000 worth of locomotives and freight cars.

Now a loan to Bolivia and another to Colombia are being proposed. American workmen who have jobs building engines and cars, rails and ships,

It is quite true that the United States was badly burned by making loans to South American countries in the "era of wonderful nonsense" of the twenties. Many of the loans were made under pressure and bribery; the proceeds were largely wasted; the debtors defaulted. But today, even those countries which are operating under ore or less dictatorial rule are engaged in huge programs of internal improvement; money advanced today is more likely to be used for useful purposes, to build up the countries so that they can pay back the loans in future. It is worth trying; besides, what else can a creditor country do, whose banks are stuffed with unloaned de-posits, and whose vaults are packed with unused gold?

BY JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

MAJORITY IN SENATE SINCERE WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.— In a big legislative fight, the play of personality is always absorbing. This man shows himself to be shuffling and weak. That one is earnest, but lamentably muddle-headed. Another proves surprisingly determined and shrewd. When the fight ends, the stock of most of the chief combatants has always risen or fallen on the mysterious but important bourse of capitol opinion.

great battle over the arms embargo is only halfway through. Yet it has already proved exceptional, in that it has shown the majority of senators in a creditable light. The sincerity and honest purpose of the leaders on both sides cannot be questioned. Although feeling is running high and there is bitterness in the air, both sides are thinking first of the country's welfare and, second, of politics. Anyone who listens to the talk in the senate corridors must come to this conclusion, however distressing he may find the windiness senate oratory, or however pointless he may think some of the MEN WITH VIEWS There is, for example, the case of Warren R. Austin, of Vermont, a hard-snelled Republican with a bumbling manner which has caused his powers to be underestimated. His distrust of and dislike for the President is as strong as any man's. Yet he has firm convictions as to the division of governmental powers under the constitution. He is not only supporting repeal of the arms embargo; at the White House conference on neutrality he also boldly stated that, in his opinion, the constitution lodged broad discretionary powers over foreign affairs in the presidency, and urged the President to insist on these powers. For a man in Austin's position, that called for courage and a striking disregard for party spirit. The stand of Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, while less clear-cut and dramatic, shows the same qualities.

On the other side, Bennett Champ Clark, of Missouri, is one of those who have increased their stature. Not long ago, he was an energetic candidate for the Democratic nomination in 1940. ably because some well-meaning but mistaken friends of his foolishly intervened, the White House got the idea in its head that Clark was willing to sacrifice his independence in order to procure the President's approval of his candidacy. If such was his desire, he could have had no better opportunity than the arms embargo fight, for he was one of the authors of the neutrality act and would have been a most welcome recruit for the repealists.

But Clark, it is now proved, is constitutionally independent. He had views of his own, largely drawn from the famous munitions inquiry, and he stuck grimly by them, expounding them with real force. Then there is Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, the Republican anti-repeal leader. His stand was to be expected, but his stock has been sent handsomely up by his remarkable speech in the senate. It was marred, as usual, by Vandenberg's inability to resist pompous and meretricious English, but its reasoning was so close and its organization so impressive as to make it by far the best in

THE LEGISLATIVE PROCESS Among the Democratic repealists, Senator James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, has demonstrated the great talents as a legislative leader which everyone knew he had. Old Carter Glass and young Harry Byrd, the solemn Josiah W. Bailey and the embittered Walter F. George have stirringly struck hands with the President whom they detest, who once tried to destroy them. And so

Indeed, except that most repealists have been unwilling to speak their minds with impolitic frankness, the embargo fight finely dem-onstrated our congressional system. It has had its picturesque aspects, and its dramatic moments, for what could be more turesque than William E. Borah and Hiram Johnson responding to a vaguely heard alarm like a team of ancient but faithful fire horses? Or what more dramatic than the speech of the aged George Norris, last of the little band who dared to vote against our entry into the last war, who now forgets his old pacifism in his hatred of the new barbarity?

And the fight has had its squalid incidents and its unpleasant sides. The senator who thrice indorsed embargo repeal, and then yielded to the peevish distrust of the President which Austin mastered, does no credit to the congress. Neither do the senators whom the mail has driven onto the fence. Neither does the outward form of the battle, for the doings of congress are always externally shabby and unimpressive. But these are petty matters, which do not change the central fact—that, when congress must face a great issue, the legislative process works admirably well.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 .- In all the debate on the Hitler-Stalin revival of the World War nobody has yet pointed out that complete freedom of speech, religion and the press, and certain other luxuries of civilization, are preserved, in peacetime at least, only in capi-talistic countries. It does not follow that they are preserved even in peacetime in all capitalistic countries, but it is an important fact that in peace or war they are unpreserved with the worst ferocity in those countries which have gone bolo in one guise or another. Nevertheless, the Americans sometimes are asked to believe that the world would have nothing to lose but their chains in overthrowing capitalism when the obvious fact is that they would lose every ordinary habitual right. The Russians, of course, never had any rights and therefore may be said to have lost nothing; but the Germans and Italians have been heavy osers and scoff at American free to govern themselves as free peo-In this war the Hitler-Stalin

But the only nations in the war which have revealed territorial ambitions are Germany and Russia, and Italy, sitting on the bench, ready to go in on one side or the other, already has made two conquests and advertised an intention to go out for more.

In the face of the Foolish facts of life in this To Argue countdy, it is foolish to argue that American capitalists want war or that people who are not consciously capitalistic but just go through life exercising the liberties permitted only under capitalism could improve their condition by overthrowing capitalism. The capitalists saw what happened to the capitalists of Italy and Germany and are as mindful of their own personal, human rights as anyone else. That is why the American capi-talists have been so apprehensive about the New Deal. They saw in some phases of the New Deal a resemblance to the method by which Hitler and Mussolini built up local, strongarm bureaus to nake and administer law by ear and the creation of a class of wards or dependents of the central government who would keep that government in power and increase ts power for the sake of what was in it for them. That might be an attractive proposition to the wards of the administration at the beginning, but, again, it is well to look at the other side, where a glimpse shows that dictators must force their wards into their armies and must make war.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL

"WHAT ARE WE FIGHTING FOR?" England's foreign policy has been one of maintaining the balance of power in Europe. "All our greatest wars," said Sir Austen Chamberlain, "have been fought to prevent one great military power dominating Europe, and at the same time dominating the coasts of the channel and the ports of the Low

That still must be England's policy. For that reason there is every reason to believe England may propose a peace, in reply to Adolf Hitler, which will be accepted. Hitler himself will want it because Hitler cannot like the presence of Russia, growing stronger and stronger. Russia has about completed the circle about Ger-

Hitler, too, must know that as long as the war goes on the army leaders, not Hitler, will grow larger and larger in the pub-

He did not want the war. He does not wish it. He gambled with Poland and, apparently, lost. He did not believe they would fight. And, one must admit, they have not yet really fought. The west walls stand, the Siegfried and Maginot lines. A few ships have west wans stand, the Siegiried and Maginot lines. A lew ships have been sunk, a few hundred men have been killed, a few thousand wounded. But the war has not begun.

The people do not want it. The cry for bread has been raised in Germany. In France and England there is determination to give in no further to Hitler. But there is no desire for war.

The English, seeing Russia growing stronger, must add that fear to the German fear. So must France. And Germany also must fear the Russian power which is expanding and, by gaining ports bases, increasing its economic and military strength. There is more reason to expect peace than there was the day Hitler spoke. Too many people are asking, "What are we fight-

SHAW AND GEORGE George Bernard Shaw declared the war was over and that no reason existed to go on fighting. There is a tendency to laugh at this slightly mad Irishman who has given us many great plays and much fine wit. Lloyd George asks why it is all right for Hitler to suggest peace wrong for an Englishman to suggest it. He asks that England carefully study the possibilities of peace.

Shaw may, as is charged, delight in impishly taking the side he thinks is opposed to that to be taken by the majority. Yet there is more than a little good, hard wisdom in what he says. He asks why, with Poland gone, it is necessary to continue a war which can only result in the deaths of millions of people; which can only result in the destruction of great cities; of great works of art, of universities and of schools? And then he asks: "Is there no other alternative?"

It is absurd to say this is a "holy" war. It is not even a war ideologies. "Stop Hitler" or "End Hitlerism" do not carry much weight. That means only another long war and another Versailles treaty, or a worse one. Is there no way to end Hitlerism save by fighting a war? Will a war do the job! That seems a fair question. The war that ends Hitlerism may establish Communism. England has not formulated her war aims. They must be something more than merely ending "Hitlerism." We ended Kaiserism once and got something worse. And we ended it with a war. A war will not end "Hitlerism."

EUROPEAN STATESMENSHIP The problem affords an opportunity for real statesmanship. Hitler has proved himself entirely dishonest. His word has been given and broken with regularity. Yet he has revealed himself as being mortally afraid. He does not want war. Neither do his people. Nor do the peoples of the other countries involved.

Italy is nervous and afraid. The Balkans are falling under the spell of Russia. Russia is winning this war that isn't being fought.

With no one wanting the war; with the debts and the horrors of the last war still fresh in our minds, there must be some way to end Hitlerism without war. There must be enough statesmanship left in Europe to bring about peace. The task is more difficult because Hitler has proved his promises are worthless. Yet the cold, hard fact remains that we must settle it with blood or with wisdom. The American people are becoming more and more realistic about this war. It ought to be possible to remind them every day of the war debts and of the "Uncle Shylock" propaganda used against us in the piping times of peace. We are becoming more and more determined, as a people, to keep out of the war if the nations of Europe are so bankrupt in statesmanship they must resort to blood and death as a solution for the settlement of their

England and France would fail in this historic moment if they did not follow the suggestion of Lloyd George and make counter proposals. They can, if they will, make a peace more satisfactory

It is my good fortune, through no virtue of my own, to be a citizen of the United States. I have the privilege of living in the country that is more richly endowed, more fortunate and happier than any other on earth. As a citizen I am joint owner of this country's riches and heir to its illimitable possibilities. My country is so rich that its hoard of gold, its production and its ability to buy and enjoy the good things of life exceed that of all other nations combined.

When present plans are completed, my country will be so strong and so well protected that no other nation or combination of nations can invade or conquer it. Therefore, situated as I am, in this present year of grace, being heir to all that man has learned and civilization has accomplishe

I am blessed above all other persons who ever walked upon the Whether I have much or little, I fare better here and now than I could hope to fare in any other land.

My country, built by free and equal men, and its manifold blessings made possible by means of Democracy, is now the only land on earth where men are still free and where representative government still functions These blessings and this freedom and security are my inheritance, but they are not guaranteed to me in perpetuity, and by unwisdom I could lose them for myself and for my children and all who come after me. I realize that the war in Europe is more than the age-old struggle for territory and power, and my sympathies are involved because men who believe in freedom are fighting against those who believe in conquest by force and the suppression of all liberty. I realize that the radio and the public prints will be used by the shrewdest of men and the most brilliant psychologists to convince me that my country should enter the war and help fight for freedom. By this means, and by reason of offenses against my country, I shall be tempted almost beyond my power to resist. Let me, therefore, never cease to ask myself the question: What could my country accomplish by going to war that would bring our people greater good than we can have by remaining at peace? Let me never forget that war brings only death and cripples, debt and poverty, and, whether won or lost, leaves a nation financially and morally and spiritually bankrupt. And let me remember every hour that our great nation, by preserving freedom within its own boundaries, and saving itself from the madness of war, can do more to preserve civilization than it could hope to do by leaving the white man's civilization without uncrippled defender.

For instance, Judge Cox emphasized that in debating the subect, it was important to consider the lifting of the embargo as freely offering in our American ports all the munitions of war that a belligerent might wish to carry away for cash, emphasis being placed upon the fact that all belligerents able to call for and pay cash for such commodities were to be treated alike.

Allies Consult on Reply.

The British and French rnments were in consultation on a reply to Hitler's peace overtures. Chamberlain was expected to voice it when he gives parliament his weekly war report Wednesday.

Premier Daladier framed a reply to Hitler's peace speech and Paris political circles expected it would emphasize France's refusal to discuss terms involving recognition of Poland's partition.

Daladier will speak at 8 p. m.
(1 p. m., Atlanta time, this afternoon over a nation-wide hook-up.) Meanwhile, Soviet Russia back-ed Germany in her drive for peace in Europe at the same time she sought to consolidate her military, territorial and economic gains in a diplomatic chain stretching from the Baltic to the Black sea.

In the first comment to appear in Russia on Adolf Hitler's reichstag speech of Friday, the government newspaper Izvestia made demand for peace on the basis of Hitler's terms, which the paper called "real" and "practical," and attacked Britain and France.

"It is impossible," the newspa-per declared, "to exterminate any idea or any opinion by fire and sword. One may respect or hate Hitlerism or any other system of political opinions. This is a mat-ter of taste. But to begin a war for the 'extermination of Hitler-ism' means to admit the criminal silliness in policy."

LEGACY OF LOVE

Rita Tells Bob He Can Drive Her To Her Family's Summer Home

BY KATHRN BEMIS.

Synopsis of Preceding Installments.

Rits Rhodes, heiress to an independent fortune when she is 25 or sooner if she marries, is deeply hurt and mystified when Preston Meeker suggests that they made a mistake in their ungagement. She breaks it, of course, as they sit in masquerade costume in a lantern-lighted Pasadena garden, but wonders what is the matter with her that men treat her so heartlessly. She is pretty, she knows, but Preston is the third fiance to break the bonds. She wisnes her perennially young mother, Dolores, were with her instead of in Paris, as she detests wilmot Green, Delores' fourth husband, and hates to face him with the news. Also to face the comment of the newspaper columnists who have described her as a flirtatious glamor girl. When Preston leaves her under the lanterns, the bushes behind them part, and a man in a grotesque clown's costume appears, saying, "It's a darn shame! A low-down fortune hunter like Meeker not-footing it away from a girl of your type! I'm at your service and you're going to see a lot of me." He disappears as others approach. Despite her resentment at his snooping Rita thrills to an exciting warmth. Green, 15 years younger than Dolores, is gruff when she tells him about the third broken engagement and says she herself must cable her mother. Rita graps when the masquerade clown phones to say he is going to take her out the next evening. Delores cables Green she is divorcing him and he leaves for Paris. Rita recognizes the voice of her new chauffeur, engaged by Green, as that of the clown. Now Go

In her mental vision there was the sandy hair, the ruddy skin of a good-looking face, well-arched. Repeated Use of Military Terms in Community Fund Appeal Indicates Concern Over Conflict.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(P)—President Roosevelt as erted in a radio address tonight that community funds are America's home front and added, significantly, that "our home front must be defended at all hazards."

The President spoke, by radio, in behalf of the 1939 mobilization for human needs and in support of community funds which handle local relief problems in many American cities.

His repeated use of military terms evidenced, perhaps, his concern over the war in Europe. He referred directly to that conflict when he declared at the outset of his brief enech.

After the motor is started, mov ing of a valve actuating lever into forward position is all that is neccessary to put the car in motion.
Gear shifting is entirely automatic. Gears, incidentally, are always in mesh, which means that there can be no clashing of gears or chipping of gear teeth. This means also that the engine serves as a brake on down grades. Retained and improved in the new models are the rhythmic ride and dual-center control steering.

Olds "60" Is Larger.
Oldsmobile "60," introduced last year for the first time, reappears this year as a larger and roomier car, with its overall length increased to 197 3-4 inches and its engine stepped up to 95 horsepower. The six-cylinder Olds "70" in the popular priced field boasts a larger and newly designed body. Overall length in this series is 199 3-4 inches.

The eight-cylinder Oldsmobile, christened this year the "Custom 8 Cruiser," has a wheel base of 124 inches and overall length of 210 3-4 inches.

Lewis sharply criticized recent administration of the Wagner act by the National Labor Relations Board, while reiterating the CIO's approval of the act.
"But," he said, "when the act is so administered as to thwart the development and maintenance of stable industrial relations, then it becomes necessary to consider and weigh carefully .. hether the ben-efits of the act outweigh the danwhich its administration in flicts upon organized labor.

"Leans Over Backward." Tracing recent decisions of the board he commented: "In the face the combined strack on the part of the AFL executive council and the reactionary interests all over the country, the board has more than leaned over backwards in its administration of the law." Lewis also attacked the federal government's "hesitant half steps toward solution" of unemployme which he said must be solved "i we are to justify the effectivene of our democracy; of our vaunted leadership in the economic field." War Boom No Solution, Unemployment cannot be solved by a war boom, he said in stressing labor's concern that the United States keep out of war.

"When a war boom ends the nation is certain to be in a worse economic condition and the workers to suffer worse hardships than before such a boom began.

Majority Optimistic.

The views of 50 outstanding economists, selected with due respect to geographical location, po-litical philosophy, and applied or theoretical practice, were polled by views of the cause and probable duration of the present upswing. Analysis of 30 replies received showed the majority optimistic for business future.

In contrast to previous such symposiums during the past few years, the replies contained very few criticisms of the federal administration's attitude toward A number said they noted a

However, some predicted the growth of "boom psychology" and many said that if not that, the psychology recently prevailing might sweep us into a period in which, with vast idle credit available, an upward price movement might start which government would have difficulty in curbing.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Investigation of a "conversational plot" to kidnap the 2year-old daughter of Henry Fonda or the film actor himself was revealed today by Los Angeles and San Bernardino police.

A girl, whom Sergeant M. L. Uptain, of the San Bernardino police, refused to name, told investigators that on the morning of October 2 she overheard two men discussing the kidnaping on a San Bernardino street corner.

That night, she added, a man telephoned her and asked: "Is this the blonde?" Sergeant Uptain said the girl answered, "Yes, this is Pauline," whereupon she was warned that if "you want to remain as you are, you had better stop listening to conversations on street corners."

Here's Why You Should Change To A Modern Electric Range! It's Clean-Fast-Simple-Low in Cost

When you buy ANY new range you naturally expect to use it for years ... to get your money's worth out of it. So its purchase 4s actually a long-time investment. Protect that investment! Be certain the range you buy today is still modern tomorrow! Not only in style and conveniences, but in method. All over the country the swing is to the Electric Range. Here's proof! A short six years ago, one Electric Range was bought to every fifteen of the fuel-type range that was "tops" in Grandmother's day. Today, the count is one to three! WHY this amazingly rapid acceptance of the Electric Range? Because of its natural, matchless superiorities. Only the Electric Range is flameless, smokeless, sootless - free from odor and fumes. Only the Electric Range provides radiant, penetrating heat. Only the Electric Range uses no oxygen -leaves the air pure and fresh! In addition to these exclusive features, the Electric Range cooks as fast as any other kind. And at the lowest electric rates in our history, an Electric Range costs less than ever to use. Consider all this before you buy ANY range. See a modern Electric Range before you buy ANY range. Find out how little it costs, how easy it is to own and how little it costs to use. Then, YOU decide!

Orphan's Books Are Her Only Companions

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield:

I am troubled about my lifethe great disappointments I have had and am yet to have. Perhaps you can give me some encouragement. I am an orphan living with a relative in a small village where there are no amusements, no advantages and no eligible men. Really I am denied everything to my taste, except books, I can't go to the city to live and there's no life here. The nearest tennis courts and golf courses are miles away. There aren't enough congenial people nearby to organize card, garden or photography clubs. I am lonely beyond words, frustrated and disappointed. Youth is slipping fast and I am missing everything I wanted. What is there left for one like me? JANET.

Get up and do something be-fore you fall into the pit of self-pity, dear girl, from which escape is well-nigh impossible Yes, it's hard to live a solitary existence when you love peoin the village when you yearn to be in the city that's brimming with interest; places to go and things to see. Should Be Left Up to Individual By Dr. William Brady.

It is high time for decent citizens to take steps to put an end to the contemptible racket which is worked on humble or defenseless people by the petty politicians in health boards or health departments, and not only in obscure country villages but sometimes in communities purporting to be populated by intelligent, self-respecting folk. I refer to such scurvy mistreatment at the hands of the local government, right here in America, as this, clipped from a newspaper:

If my neighbor were mentally incompetent or for any other reason incapable of knowing right from wrong or safety from danger, then perhaps it would be my duty to see to it, if possible, that he should be vaccinated. Vaccine Choice MY DAY View Time as a Loan To Ease Your Pain

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON.—Every time I fly across the mountain ranges and deserts, I realize what a great country is ours. The trip on Friday was interesting and colorful. Near Phoenix, Ariz., I saw some of the government homesteads and camps.

An official from the Farm Security Administra-tion, who happened to be on the plane, told me they were working out successfully. I managed to do a great deal of reading on this trip. There is an autobiography dictated by Dan Beard, who is now about 80 years old, which you will find delightful if you are interested in stories of the people who made our country and the recollections of a man who has lived a long and interesting life.

I think you will also enjoy a novel by Rose Franken, called "Claudia." This story of a young married couple will give many people a chance to say, "Why, that's just what happened to us," or "How funny—we did just the same thing." It is a record of everyday life, but the people who lived this daily round were rather unusual youngsters. A few of the sentences from the book remain with me and so I pass them on to you. "But you pay so much when you live like this," Claudia whis-

"Then pay it, darling. Don't be niggardly with life. Open your arms to it. Be friends with happiness and be friends with pain."
Then again, "Everything you have in life is only lent you—a loan is more precious than a gift and brings with it a greater obli-

How many of us, I wonder, in our daily relationships think of our time together as a loan? It might considerably change some of the things which we do. It might heighten our happiness and minimize our pain.

My day in Fort Worth, Texas, yesterday was really delightful, in spite of the fact that the Texas climate is warmer than one expects it to be at this season of the year. The two grandchildren are very attractive and I am always fascinated when I hear "Tony," aged three, solemnly address me as "Grandmother Roosevelt."

Ruth and I went to the broadcasting station in the afternoon and listened to Elliott's broadcast. As he had to do this twice, once at 6:15 and again at 9. I was interested in seeing what was done in the control room. We sat through the first broadcast in the room with him, and the second time we listened over the radio in his office. His voice is toned down, where as the announcer's voice is given more volume, all by the proper use of machinery in the control room. I left Fort Worth last night on the sleeper plane and

Exercise Is Beauty Measure, Not a Means of Reducing

You can reduce by exercise but it's the hard way. You would have to exercise on the grand scale and count calories—the ones you burn in energy!

You could lose a pound by trotting 34 miles at the fairly brisk clip of eight miles per hoursomething you are unlikely to try! And, if you were in championship form and could swim for an hour at the speed of two miles per hour, eighth of a pound.

To lose one pound you must burn 4,320 calories. That is no easy job. The championship swimming just mentioned uses a comparatively large number of calories—540 per hour. But few of us swim often enough to count on it to take weight down.

Horseback riding uses about 300 calories per hour. Nobody seems to mind how many the burns! Table tennis uses the same number-300 per hour. The worse you are at the game, the more twisting and bending you will have to do, and the better your weight and waistline.

Waltzing takes about 200 cala jitterbug, you might wear your-self down considerably more. The number of calories it takes to "shag" have not been checked.

All those calorie estimates are based on the assumption that you weigh around 150 pounds, with most of your weight in active tis-sue. Considerable overweight means a high percentage of inac-tive tissue—fat, which burns few

Hamlet's Role Is Crooner's Desire

By Sheilah Graham. HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.-Robert Taylor wears "lifts" in his shoes when making love to Greer Garson in "Remember?" Greer is a tall gal. And it is one of the rules in Hollywood that the man making love must be taller than the female receiving it. . . . Miss Garson, by the way, was exceedingly wrathful when told there was a possibility of Norma Shearer taking over her role in "Susan and God." She has been assured of her prior rights in this matter by Benny Thau, who not only is Miss Garson's favorite escort, but, more important-in this case-a big shot executive at Metro. . . . But to revert to "lifts." Mickey Rooney has taken to wearing them in private life—particularly when he goes out dancing. He does not like to be towered over by the girl in his arms. (The two smallest men I have danced with-Carl Laemmle Jr., and A. C. Blumenthal-both better that way.) Bob Hope will adopt an 18-month-old boy in February from the Chicago "Cradle" as a future companion for his nine-week-old adopted Linda . . . The major reason behind Bette Davis' current trouble with her Warner bosses, and her refusal to return to Holly-wood, is a certain Mr. "Ham" Nelson (her ex-husband), whom she is seeing a lot in New York. Her romance with George Brent has fallen through, and, as Bette wrote to a friend here—"I have nothing to come back to in Hollywood." . . . Director Woody Van Dyke says he is willing to give $1,000 a week of his salary, if 16 producers will do likewise, to form a fund for the current large army of unemployed in Hollywood.

When and if Hedy Lamarr breaks her contract with Metro, she will sign up with Twentieth Century-Fox, which has promised her $125,000 each for two pictures and $150,000 for a third. Quite a jump from the $750 a week she has been receiving 40 weeks of each year from her present studio. Husband Gene Markey is an asociate producer at Fox, and I magine it is he who is behind his wife's current revolt, and the lad who will take charge of her film future—if Metro lets her go. I imagine the latter will come through with a sizable salary offer for the number one glamof girl of the decade. Rudy Vallee, who has always throbbed with the desire to play Hamlet or something equally serious, finally got his wish in New Jersey-and was hissed for his pains. . . Frank Morgan is still grumbling about the $300,000 he says he lost by Metro's refusal to let him sign a three-year radio contract. . . . Morgan, by the way, will shortly testify in court against the promoters of those oil wells in which he lost money together with Ralph Bellamy, Reginald Owen and Charles Farrell. . . . A plaint from Luise Rainer-"Before I was famous, people were friendly and human. After I became famous, I was set apart from ordinary people. And I was lovely." Poor Luise, I think she takes herself and her art a trifle too seriously. At the moment, she is trying to induce a New York stage producer to star her in a play based on the life of Pavlova.

David Niven decided to stay over and do some well-paid broadcasting, after adding up the state and federal income tax he will have to pay before leaving these shores for England. He is now scheduled to depart for New York October 15. I have a hunch he will stay in that city until he is in a department store and at an- actually called for active service.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 9 .- (P)-How famous old Vesuvius, Italy's active volcano, was brought into line when it refused to co-operate during black-outs of Naples was told tonight by a Baltimorean-just back from Europe.

When Naples was blacked out as a precaution just before the war started, he said, Vesuvius shot its flames skyward as usual, a beacon any airman might follow directly to the Naples area.

The next time the air alarm sounded, Italian war planes zoomed up and laid a smoke screen around Vesuvius. PHONE IN 10 YEARS

Bulldog Regular Guard Shoots Off 2 Toes; Tackle Dismissed

For years and years and years, or ever since grandpa was a young buck, you've been hearing it said, probably, that Georgia Tech can't play football away from home.

There might have been some basis for that belief even after grandpa began taking on a little age. But certainly it has been the annual home-coming day batjust a lot of idle talk in the last two years.

The notion that Tech isn't a good road club was kicked higher than one of Charley Sanders' reverse spirals last Saturday at South Bend. There is no reason to believe they would have given a better account of themselves at Grant field.

And what makes Tech men glow-and I do mean glow-is the fact that outsiders take so quickly to the team. California people were cheering for Georgia Tech last year at Berkeley.

Saturday, Irish supporters—and they're a clannish lot, as rule-honestly were rooting for the Golden Jackets. Moans of genuine anguish would go up when a pass fell incomplete. Wild cheers rose above the stadium when one of the backs got off

It was an amazing thing. The atmosphere distinctly was Grant field atmosphere. It was friendly, encouraging. Surely it could not be that the Irish supporters wanted to see their team lose. That's out of the ques-

The fact is they wanted to see Tech do well. It's that sort of a team. A lot of them would not have felt

Which is, unquestionably, a very fine tribute to the boys and the coaches. It should make Tech men glow. Because fans remember Georgia Tech long after the first the first dismissed them from the squad Monday morning when he was notified of the rule infraction.

"We have morned at the first the f fans remember Georgia Tech long after the final result is time after time not to violate posted. And they like to have the old Rambling Wreck ramble training rules during the season back for return engagements.

plays which have worked with much success in practice that defense and offense.

LIGHT WORKOUT. Tech failed to produce.

It was not such a good day for scouts. They learned definitely that Johnny Bosch is a fine all-round back; that Tech's line will be okay; that the kicking is as good as ever; that the deception of certain plays used call for a strong, alert defense to stop.

Tech did not choose to fire all the shots in the arsenal. And it is just as well. Notre Dame is just one of the tough games out Thursday.

People enjoyed driving in from the country, spending Sunday afternoon at the ball park, and then returning home of an evening in time for church.

How it is possible to make an indictment against Sunday baseball is difficult to conceive. Baseball is a sport which inspires children and entertains grown-ups in a most wholesome post today and C. B. Guest and fashion.

It is not held illegal to play tennis on Sunday. One may go swimming on Sunday. One may play golf on Sunday. You can even climb Stone Mountain for the

Filed Against Trucks

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 9.—(P)—
United States District Attorney
Francis H. Inge today filed automobile theft charges against Virgil Trucks, young baseball pitcher, who set a new strikeout record while playing in the Alabama-Florida league in 1938.

Inge's complaint charged Trucks was in possession of an automobile stolen from Mrs. Martha A. Frazer, of Mobile, when he was arrested Sunday at Alexandria, La. Mrs. Frazer said her car had been missing since Saturday night.

Trucks, about 20 years old, struck out 418 batters during the 1938 season while hurling for Andalusia, Ala.

The young pitcher was signed by Detroit, and hurled in the Evangeline league last season. He recently made his home in Mobile.

EACH RED ERROR SCHOOL LEAGUE Southern Teams Top Williamson Ranking IS WORTH $37,500 STARTS SEASON

With southern football teams either soundly trouncing their opponents or losing hair-breadth decisions in important intersectional tussles last Saturday, the grid-following world was duly astounded, and Hugh Hallman Leads Paul Williamson, creator of the Williamson rating system, predicts swing of the balance of power to the south this year.

The sound 37-to-0 flaying Duke's Blue Devils laid on supposedly powerful Colgate Saturday gives the national top-ranking spot to Wallace Wade's men with a rating of 97.1 in Williamson's book. Tech High school, rolling the first Other southern conquests of note were L. S. U.'s and All-America ball of the newly scheduled sea- End Ken Kavanaugh's 26-7 rout of Holy Cross, and Alabama's impressive upset victory over the perennial pre-season Rose Bowl selection, Fordham's Rams, by a 7-to-6 margin.

Georgia Tech surprised the dopesters by holding the supposedly greatly superior Notre Dame battalion to a 17-14 verdict, in a fracas which the invading Yellow Jackets almost pulled out of the fire in league opened activities on the the last two minutes of play. Little Centre, by holding the Army to a slim 9-6 verdict, became the second southern outfit to scare the Army mule within two weeks. Army's chief rival, the Navy, also just edged by a below-Mason-Dixon crew. The Virginia Cavaliers were nosed out by the Midshipmen, 14-12.

Ole Miss engulfed stout Southwestern, 41-0, and is ranked third nationally behind Duke and Pitt.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The British pound started the week off at full steam ahead. Despite the lack of contidence shown by many other markets in the way events are shaping up abroad, foreign exchange dealers reported sterling quickly responded to comparatively small demand.

Today's gain was 1% cents in terms of the dollar. Demand for the pound splashed over to the French franc which advanced .01% of a cent. The beiga also improved, but the guilder and Swiss franc were unchanged.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9 .- (AP)-Rains in the grain belt, relieving severe drought conditions in many districts where farmers have been delaying winter wheat seeding. caused wheat prices to slump as much as 1 7-8 cents a bushel today but the market later regained some of this loss.

The price break in early dealings carried wheat below 80 cents a bushel, the government loan rate at Chicago, for the first time since September 2, when the war in Europe was only two days old. July contracts, representing the new crop which is off to a late start, were weakest, falling to 77 1-2, but later displayed most recovery

Wheat closed 1-4 to 3-4 lower than Saturday; but corn was 1-2 to 7-8 higher. Oats were unchanged to 1-8 lower, rye 1-2 to 3-4 down

WARCHILDREN'S PLIGHT

CITED BY ROOSEVELT BOSTON, Oct. 9.—(P)—President Roosevelt called upon the National Recreation Congress tonight to "pause and give thanks" that American children "are still free to play" while "little children in some countries are carry-ing gas masks and living in hour-ly fear of bomb raids."

In a letter read at the opening session of the organization's session of the organization's twenty-fourth convention by John H. Finley, its president, Mr. Roosevelt expressed hope that the congress would "carry to the nation the great message of joy, health and happiness that comes through play."

EIGHTH BOY IN 13 YEARS IS BORN TO WIFE, 34

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—(A)-Mrs. Ruth McCaffery, 34-year-old wife of a longshoreman, gave birth to her eighth boy in 13 years today.

She said:
"I wanted a girl, but I'm not sorry. I guess I'll name him Bernard. It's getting difficult to choose boys' names."

bers of the Atlanta Rotary Club to take the lead in supporting the 1939 Community Fund in both enthusiasm and giving. Mr. Arkwright spoke yesterday at weekly meeting of the club at the Ansley hotel.

The Community Fund, which allots the money it raises to 33 local charities, is a measure of the religion of the peiple of the com-munity, Mr. Arkwright said. He pointed out the advantages of having one fund to give to instead of 33 separate charities. The Community Fund certifies that its agencies are doing necessary work, the business is audited, there is no overlapping of work and no commissions are paid, he pointed
